

Rural Generalist Coordination Unit

Scholarships and Training Support Guidelines

Updated November 2025

Introduction

The Rural Generalist Program South Australian (RGPSA) was introduced for the commencement of the 2021 training year and aims to coordinate and build on existing structures and services for the delivery of training.

The RGPSA responds to the Australian Government's Stronger Rural Health Strategy for the National Rural Generalist Pathway and the requirement for the implementation of Rural Generalist Coordination Units in each state and territory, linked to Commonwealth funding.

The RGPSA seeks to align with the National Rural Generalist Pathway, noting that South Australia has a range of variables that need to be considered, such as state junior medical workforce influences, the construct of rural postgraduate medical training programs and the unique geographical and demographical make up of SA.

Supporting Rural Medical Training in South Australia

Supporting rural junior doctors and Fellowed GPs with access to further training including advanced or additional skills, as well as upskilling and learning opportunities, is a key strategy of the RGPSA. To support access, the RGPSA is offering funding for junior doctors and Fellowed GPs to access a range of courses including covering course fees. Funding is capped at a maximum of $5,000 (see further information below).

These guidelines are primarily aimed to support achievement of emergency medicine and obstetric qualifications but other training will be considered to increase the skills base of rural GPs in South Australia.

Eligibility

Support under the RGPSA's Scholarships and Training Support is available for medical practitioners where they are:

- living and working in a rural community MMM 3 -7 locations; and are a
- South Australian rural prevocational trainee, or
- South Australian rural generalist registrars or Fellowed GP with ACRRM or RACGP-RG

Requirements

RGPSA Scholarships and Training Support applications will be required to:

- Identify the training course or qualification and support required for the trainee to be able to complete the course or qualification and the funding sought for each; and
- Identify in which community the trainee intends to practice their skills during and/or following the training.

Funding

Scholarships and Training Support may cover multiple activities and should be applied for before the commencement of the training activity. All funds must be used towards activities for rural training and are not to be used to address workforce shortages in a health service

Scholarship and Training Support funding is capped at a maximum of $5,000 excluding GST per applicant per financial year, and may include multiple eligible funding items up to the maximum. Where a course or course package exceeds $5,000 excluding GST, the successful applicant will need to cover the cost difference above 5,000 excluding GST.

Professional development provisions under the SASMOEA must not be accessed for any activity being funded through RGPSA Scholarship and Training Support grants, except to cover a cost difference.

Applications must be submitted prior to commencement of the training course or qualification.
